Wasted planning?

BFI gets temporary injunction against county management plan

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

"Surprised and shocked" were the words of Wayne County Commissioner Milt Mack as he commented on the temporary injunction granted to Lyon Development, a subsidiary of BFI Industries, last Friday, which halts the Wayne County Solid Waste Planning Commission from taking their approved plan to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

A public hearing has been set for 9:30 a.m. Oct. 8, in conference room A (seventh floor) at the members of the committee.

When asked why he believes he was singled out in BFI's lawsuit, Mack replied "I suppose it's because I've been very vocal about that particular landfill. At the commission meeting in August, when the plan was adopted, James Collier, BFI's attorney, said that the only reason the BFI and MJW (Van Buren) sites were excluded from the plan were because of me."

Mack went on to say that he wouldn't be surprised if MJW "tried the same thing" in the near future.

"You know, they talk about conflict of interest," said Mack, "when I'm a servant of the people, but BFI has one of their own officers on the committee."

County Building in downtown Detroit. At that time, anyone wishing to "speak their piece" will be allowed to do so before the judge either upholds the injunction or throws it out of court.

Lyon Development filed for the injunction on Aug. 24, against the Wayne County Waste Management Planning Committee and Wayne County.

According to the lawsuit, BFI claimed that "The committee is improperly constituted," and goes on to say that "on Jan. 5, 1983, the newly-elected Wayne County Executive (William Lucas) removed all 13 members of the committee for reasons other than nonperformance... and appointed new members to the committee."

It goes on to say that "since January of 1983, the committee has not been properly paneled; members have been improperly removed, vacancies have not been properly filled and the committee has been acting without proper authority."

As a result, BFI attorneys contend that any actions made by the board, including the shaping of the Solid Waste Management Plan, are void.

Wayne County Commissioner Milt Mack of Wayne is directly targeted in the second count of the suit.

Subtitled "A Member of the Committee Holds Incompatible Public Offices Creating a Conflict of Interest," it claims a conflict by Mack by virtue of being a member of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, as well as serving on the Solid Waste Planning Committee concurrently.

"That's just sour grapes," said Mack. "Act 641, which caused the creation of the committee in the first place, states that one member should be a representative of county government. That's me."

According to the lawsuit, Mack "will participate in approving or rejecting (the plan), which as a committee member he actively engaged in drafting."

The Planning Committee is subordinate to and under the supervision of the Wayne County Commissioners."

"That just isn't true," Mack said in an interview Sunday. "All the committee does is to recommend a plan to the County Commissioners. They are free to send it back for changes, or even to submit an entirely new plan, if they wanted." Mack is one of 13

tions, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners recommended that the committee exclude the Lyon (BFI) landfill from the plan."

In April, two public hearings were held, drawing in excess of 300 citizens. One of the meetings, held April 19 in the Wayne County Intermediate School District offices in Wayne, drew speakers from areas as diverse as Huron, Belleville, Westland, Canton and St. Clair Shores. The vast majority spoke either against the BFI landfill, for reasons that it would create a hazard for planes taking off and landing at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, or in favor of alternative ways of getting rid of waste, such as incineration.

It is felt by many that the landfill would draw birds to feed from it, even if it were covered with a proposed wire grid, thus creating a potential for "bird strikes."

A bird strike occurs when there is a bird/plane collision or an ingestion of a bird into an engine. The Federal Aviation Administration claims that more than 150 deaths have occurred due to bird strikes. They also relayed that during a seven-month period in 1982, there were eight bird strikes at Metro.

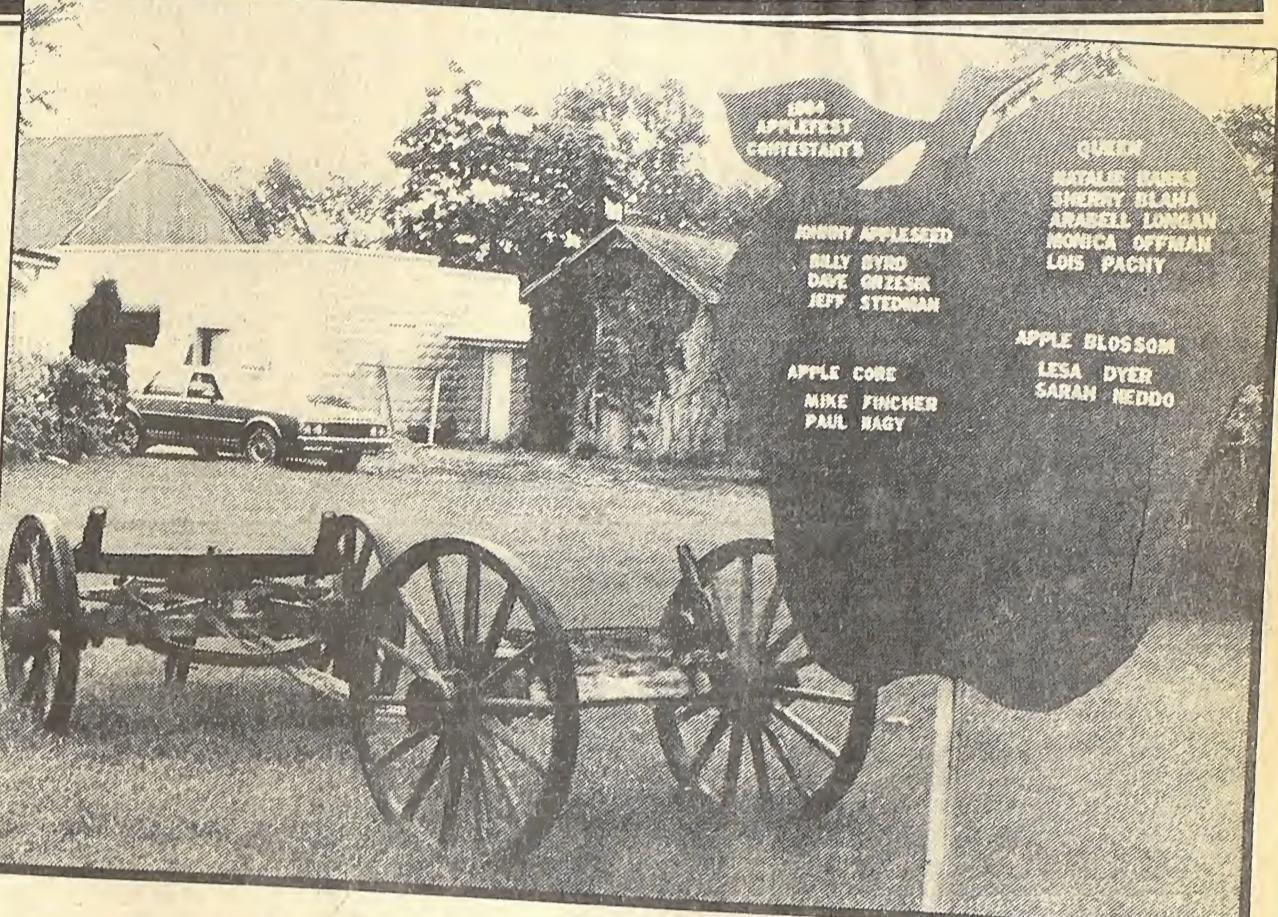

The suit claims that "Lyon will suffer irreparable injury as a result of the exclusion from the plan."

Lyon Development is also in the midst of a $10 million lawsuit against Huron Township, charging that the community's ordinances regarding landfills are unconstitutional and that the attitudes of the residents is unfair.

Collier, who could not be reached for comment on the new lawsuit, told The Associated Newspapers in April that if BFI was turned down and taken out of the plan, that they would seriously consider putting in a toxic landfill at the same site, since the committee has no say in toxic dumps, which are controlled by the DNR.

Should the court injunction be upheld, Mack and fellow committee member Jim Kosteva contend that the resulting delay could shelf plans for a $400 million incineration plant in Detroit, which would take care of approximately 50 percent of Wayne County's waste.

The fourth and final count of the lawsuit asserts that "solely based upon political considera-

Inkster man charged in rape of Van Buren Township man

A 29-year-old Inkster man has been bound over for trial in Wayne County Circuit Court on a charge of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree in connection with the alleged rape of a Van Buren Township man June 9.

John Allen Walton of Inkster was arraigned on the charge in 34th District Court recently, the second such charge brought against him in the past few months. He was arraigned earlier on a similar charge in the alleged rape of a Belleville woman.

Walton also has been charged with assault with the intent to commit armed robbery and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

According to the victim, who testified for 45 minutes at a pre-trial examination on the charges, he was awakened at about 2 a.m. that night by a black man, who was standing by his bed and wearing a turtleneck sweater, pulled up to conceal most of his face.

"I woke up and saw this guy, and he started saying 'where's the money? Where's the money?' all the while waving a small handgun around," the Van Buren man testified. "I told him my cash was out in my van, but he insisted I must have had some around there someplace."

"He threatened my life many times," the man testified before Judge Henry Zaborowski. "I thought he was going to kill me."

According to testimony, the man contacted the Van Buren Police when the suspect left.

The description he gave, later led the police to call the victim, since it matched that of the suspect, who was in custody for the alleged rape of a female.

Although the man testified that approximately 10 days after the alleged incident took place he saw the suspect come out of an apartment kitty-corner to his own, he did not call the police at that time.

"I wanted to take care of him myself. Besides," he said, "a man being raped... it's embarrassing, and I didn't know if the police would believe me."

Although the defense attorney asked the court to lower the bond since "Walton is a lifelong resident of the area and a graduate of Inkster High School," Judge Zaborowski refused to lower the bail, citing a long record of offenses dating back to 1978.

Bond was set at $50,000 cash, and the case is set to resume at 9 a.m. on Oct. 11 in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Instead of washing the wall, it may be a better investment to simply put a frame around any such designs, at least, judging from the price original artwork was going for at the convention ($25-300).

together again"). The other panel was the 'ol switcheroo, with selected fans sitting on a panel being drilled by the professionals ("OK, but why do you like those types of stories?").

There were also writer workshops, where stories were read, revered, torn apart and turned upside-down by Nadine Loeks (story editor of "Journey", written and drawn by her husband, Bill) with a little help from DC's Gary Cohn, currently writing two of the top-selling books available, "Amethyst" and "Blue Devil", the latter of which is maybe a perfect satire of the genre.

"Nadine told me the workshops went very well," said Reed. "According to her, some really great ideas were thrown around, and she even ended up finding two stories she wanted to buy for the back-up story in "Journey".

"The guests all went out of their way to say how much they enjoyed the con, and complimented us to no end about the great treatment they received. I guess, at most cons, they're pretty much abused, but we wanted them to enjoy it," said Reed. "And it worked. Every single one asked when the next King Kon would be, and asked that they be invited back."

"So did the dealers," said Jennifer, "but they also asked that we make sure the elevator is working next time."

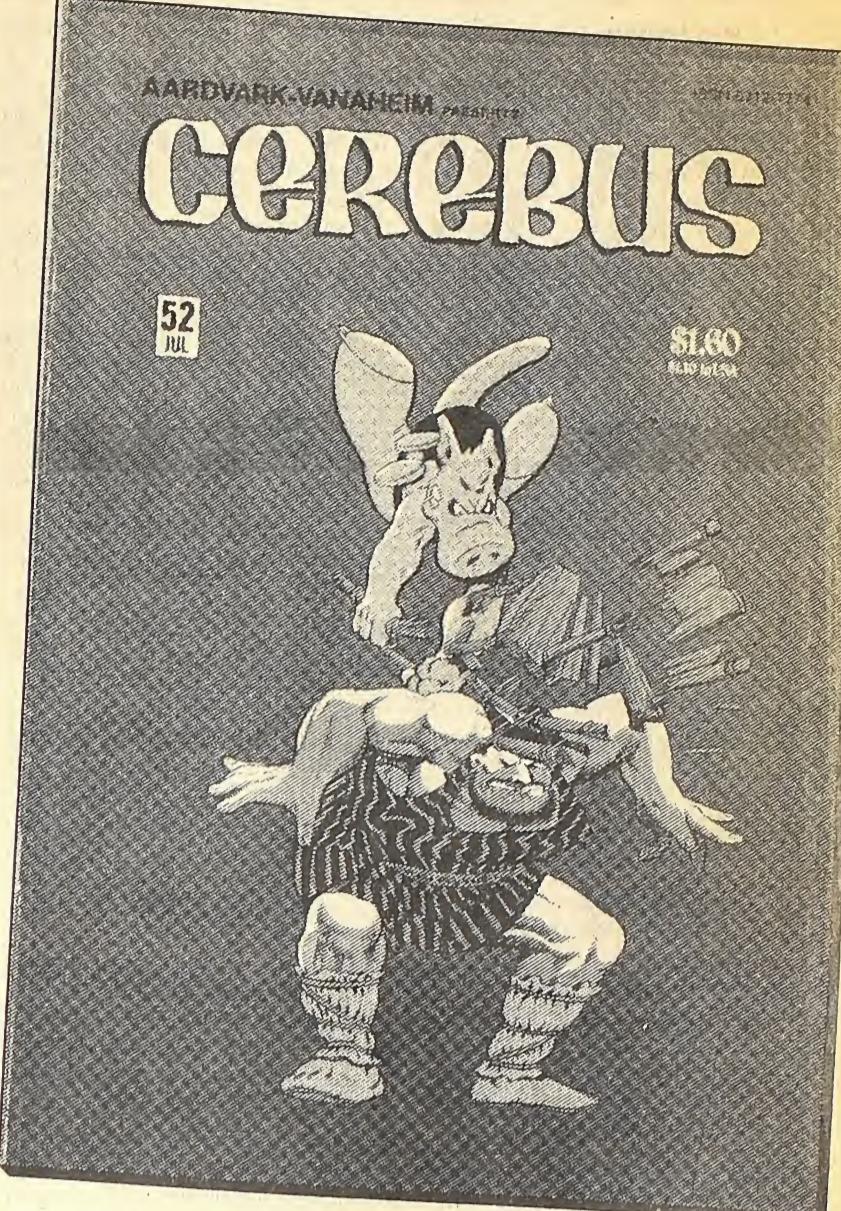

Everything from rare issues of

"OK, let's see what a reporter would look like as an Aardvark!" says Cerebus creator Dave Sim.

"Elfquest" and "X-Men" to Godzilla models to Star Trek bubble-gum cards to 30-year-old "pulp" magazines to . . . well, you name it and it was probably sold during the 8-hour convention.

"Next time," said Reed, "maybe we'll call it Son of Kon, or Return of Kon," showing off the trademark of what will probably become an annual event for the local couple — a teddy bear atop the Empire State Building holding a balsa wood glider. "But right now, we're too busy recovering from this one to even start considering another one!"

Hooked up

Barden Cablevision reports that close to 120 homes are now receiving their service.

The current service area is in the Huron Estates subdivision, which is located west of Huron River Drive and south of Northline road. The subdivision is due to be completely wired within the next two weeks.

Barden also reports that poor reception on certain channels was caused by a tree blocking the earth station that receives the satellite signal.

The tree has since been removed. Barden is also investigating an Edison transformer that may be leaking and adding to the bad reception problem, which also is expected to be corrected.

Subscribers receiving that service will not be billed for the period of time that the poor reception occurred.

New Beginnings: Help for those who grieve

"In a society as mobile as ours, we don't get as involved anymore with our neighbors, their stories, histories or memories. When a tragedy happens and we grieve our loss, there's no one to tell."

That's Rev. Robert Weikart's view of life and the primary reason why New Beginnings, a grief support group, was started by the pastoral counselor and ethicist at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center in Chelsea and James Pegg, MD, the center's director.

...after Jesus rose from the dead, he looked and sounded the same, but he was different — he was richer and fuller for the experience. He had scars but they were healed. It's the same way for us ...

"Grief is the reaction — emotional, physical, spiritual, mental and social — to any significant loss," Rev. Weikart explained. Other major events that can trigger grief, include losing a job, selling a house, having a pet die or losing limbs or other body parts.

"There's a lot of unresolved grief in this country," he said. "Our society doesn't recognize some losses as being significant enough to grieve. But you can and will grieve any significant loss that you experience."

Rev. Weikart and Dr. Pegg's lecture on various aspects of bereavement and grief during the six weeks of introductory sessions for New Beginnings. Following the six introductory sessions, the groups continue indefinitely under the direction of trained leaders from the local community.

"Many of our attitudes about death are established when we are still children," Rev. Weikart said. "In the Saturday morning cartoons, characters get flattened and then, seemingly by magic, become alive again. In some cowboy movies, dozens are killed in minutes, but are in another movie when his wife died. It was partly that experience that led him to study grief and establish New Beginnings.

In his grief-support program, Rev. Weikart uses a 10-step grief model he has developed over the years. The grief model offers a conceptual "handle" for individuals, a way to grasp the stages of grief, and provide a piece of paper they can refer to for guidance.

GRIEF MODEL

1. Shock and Denial — Disbelief.

"This phase can last from three days up to six weeks after the loss," Rev. Weikart said. "Although intellectually we know the loss has taken place, the emotional impact doesn't usually hit until after that. We don't usually expect to see anyone in New Beginnings before this."

2. Touch-Support.

"At this time people begin to miss being physically touched," Rev. Weikart said. "For example, if a spouse dies, there's no one to kiss you in the morning or to hold your hand while you're strolling through a shopping mall."

"Frequently, if your spouse died, the husbands in other couples that you were friends with won't give you a friendly hug any longer for fear of what their wives might think. Also, because of superstitions such as 'death always comes in threes' or 'cancer is catching', people will avoid you and not touch you. You begin to feel unlovable."

9. New Life.

"This is when you keep some things from the past and bring in some new things. The combination of the two is your future," Rev. Weikart said. "Some people will hold onto the past indefinitely by, for example, continuing to set a place at the table for the dead person five years or more after the death. Others will sell their possessions and house and move away very quickly to avoid being reminded of their loved one who died."

"If people are working on their grief — that is, talking to someone about their feelings — they may exhibit some of these characteristics, but they'll be sorting out their emotional feelings at the same time. But those who try to deny their grief — or remain stuck in the past hoping the dead one will return — will probably experience a delayed grief reaction months or even years later."

10. Resurrection.

"Using the biblical reference as an example," Rev. Weikart noted, "after Jesus rose from the dead, he looked and sounded the same, but he was different — he was fuller and richer for the experience. He had scars from his wounds, but they were healed. It's the same way for us — you'll always have part of that loss with you, but you're alive and while and have your own life."

Individuals may or may not experience all 10 phases and not necessarily in this order. Rev. Weikart concluded, "but it's important for people who are grieving not to feel that they are 'crazy' or let people tell them, 'It's all in your head'. Be bold and say you're hurting. Grief is very real."

PCHA gets Discover Good Health grant

For the fourth consecutive year, Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) has been awarded a grant to provide the "Discover Good Health!" free health testing for persons 60 and older in out-Wayne County. To date, more than 5,500 persons have taken advantage of program services.

"We are especially encouraged by the increase in health awareness which the project has created," said Mary Anne Homann, project director. "This year, through the PCHA Health Education Department, we will be helping some senior activity sites with development of their own health awareness program so that health test results have more meaning to the participants."

"Discover Good Health" is a health testing program which is staffed by a team of professionals from the five participating PCHA hospital units — Annapolis in Wayne, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Heritage in Taylor, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park and Seaway in Trenton. The team travels to senior activity centers and community sites, making the program easily accessible to all residents of Wayne County.

In addition to the PCHA team, other agencies contributing personnel, equipment and/or services to the program are the Optometric Institute and Clinic of Detroit, the Greater Detroit Society for the Blind, Superior Courier Service, the American Cancer Society, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, the Lions Club and several area colleges such as Madonna College, Ferris State College, Eastern Michigan University and University of Michigan.

An essential part of the team are the auxiliaries who volunteer their time and energy at each PCHA hospital unit. As participants approach each testing station in the health screening, they are greeted by an auxiliary member whose main goal is to help them feel comfortable as they go through the program.

If a person needs assistance with forms or is unsure where to go, these kind faces come to the rescue. Anyone interested in joining an auxiliary to support this or other projects can get details by contacting any PCHA hospital unit.

Since its beginning four years ago, the program has added several new types of testing to accommodate changing health needs of older adults. The full screening now includes vision, glaucoma and cataract testing, blood pressure check, TB skin test, hearing test, lung check, breast exam, complete blood count and chemistry, oral exam, lifestyle assessment, several cancer tests and information and counseling on a number of health subjects. During October and November, flu shots will also be available.

Upcoming health screenings include Oct. 27 at the Downriver Human Service Center, 19101 Inkster Road, Romulus; Nov. 7 at the Senior Drop-In Center, 36515 Bibbins, Romulus; Nov. 21 at Taylor Towers, 36500 Marquette, Westland.

Any person 60 or older living in out-Wayne County can take part in the health screening. Screenings are by appointment only, to avoid waiting in line. For more information and appointments call 467-4638.

Annexation/transfer plan should be approved

Tomorrow voters in the Cherry Hill School District will decide the future of their children's education and the fate of an education system that in one name or another has been in existence since 1878.

The decision will be whether to keep the school district intact or annex the Westland and Inkster portions to the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and transfer the Dearborn Heights portion to the Crestwood School District.

It will be a simple yes or no vote, but the preparation involved in researching the issue has been anything but simple. For more than two years the officials of the three school districts have worked out to the finest detail the annexation/transfer that voters are being asked to approve. That effort has included the assistance of state lawmakers, who have guided legislative reform and new acts through the State House and Senate to facilitate the merger.

The question that probably has been asked the most by each and every parent in the Cherry Hill district, since work started on this merger, is "why?" Why must this happen? Why must this small, community-oriented school district people have come to know so well cease to exist? Why will this merger make it better for their children?

While the whys are numerous, the answers boil down to one important fact: the Cherry Hill School District is suffering from a problem that is plaguing school districts throughout Wayne County and the state, specifically declining enrollment and the increasing cost of education.

At a time when students need to be well prepared for the high-tech society they will face outside the classroom, Cherry Hill has been forced to pare back its educational programs to accommodate fewer students and a higher price tag on what it can offer.

Joining with another school district is a logical answer to the dilemma Cherry Hill faces. By merging with Wayne-Westland, its secondary students will have an additional 100 class offerings available to them. There will be an expanded special education program for handicapped students, additional preschool and adult programs and more vocational technical training.

We endorse the concept of annexation/transfer of the Cherry Hill School District because of its most obvious benefit...a better education for the students of that district. The formation of school districts is the primary result of parental concern about the education of their children. It's financing is a burden determined by the residents, and the concern about the quality of education is the primary motivation for tomorrow's vote.

Bigger may not always be better, but in the case of the education of Cherry Hill students, this change will be for the better. To believe that Cherry Hill can compete with the educational offerings of neighboring districts, while coping with declining enrollment and increasing costs, is much like an ostrich hiding its head in the sand. The problems Cherry Hill has will not go away, they will get worse. A decision now will be a decision made by the people who have the biggest investment — their children — in the district. To wait until there is no choice will leave the future of that investment in the hands of outsiders.

Tomorrow's vote is important, and we urge Cherry Hill residents to give their support to this annexation/transfer, if not for the ideal of a quality education, then for the sake of their children. They deserve the best that money can buy.

No 4-year terms

To the Editor:

I am not surprised that our elected officials in Romulus would like four year terms between elections. If I had to reapply for my job every two years, justify my performance, and beat out any challengers, I would want it changed to a longer period.

It is important that people who serve as Councilperson, Mayor, etc., be given the test of fire every two years. This is our best protection against poor representation. Those who prove worthy will succeed (the cream normally rises to the top).

The recall procedure is inadequate protection against bad officials. Far too often we are circumvented by the board of canvassers. Many times petitions are rejected because t's were not dotted, t's not crossed, or other flimsy excuses.

There is a built-in advantage to being an incumbent, and that is media coverage. All during the time these people are in office their names and faces are in the paper and rightfully so. They are, in fact, the newsmakers. Campaigns are also news, and if a challenger can only gain media attention once every four years it will be tough to be recognized by the public. Quite often it takes three or four attempts by someone before they succeed in being elected. Let's not stifle the competition by lengthening the time before someone can mount a challenge.

I feel this Charter amendment is self-serving to those who proposed it. And I will definitely be voting against it.

Visions of tomorrow

What do Canton Township Supervisor Jim Poole, baseball hero Milt Wilcox, Robert Redford and Bugs Bunny have in common? Give up? All may be taped on your home VCR (well, okay, Poole only if you are served by Omnicom Cable and view the township meetings on the government access channel).

Who might have imagined that the technology symbolized by the three letters VCR would ever impact on our lives in such a profound way? The Video Cassette Recorder has not only altered our video viewing habits, but has created an entire new industry — and jobs in the manufacturing, distributing and selling of recorders, video cameras and a wide array of video paraphernalia.

The creation of the VCR has affected many existing and emerging industries in ways not yet fully revealed. A short time ago, people listened in awe as one "vidiot" told another how he was able to view one network television show while he taped another being telecast at the same time. Such occurrences are now routine for most VCR owners.

Video stores are continuing to pop-up throughout the area, and western Wayne County has at least its share. New movie releases arrive at these local stores weekly.

This new access to home movie viewing is going to destroy the trade of the movie theatres, right? Not from anything I've read or seen. Our own Shafer family theatres seem to be doing a robust business — according to my personal observations.

It would seem that local video houses are merely stimulating a greater desire for movie entertainment.

What the VCR has most particularly accomplished is the freedom from the entertainment dictatorship of network television executives. No more rushing dinner to be ready for "Sunday Night at the Movies." When you factor in cable television, we have become even less dependent on network TV for our entertainment.

Video records are now making recording artists video entertainers. Triggered in part by the success of MTV, teens, too, are turning to VCRs and are taping, and swapping tapes, the way they used to do records. It would appear that we are more in control of our lives as a result of the availability of VCRs.

The side benefits, such as recording family events with the aid of a video camera, are becoming routine as well. Kodak stopped production of 8mm sound cameras some time ago and moved to marketing video recording tape.

What's next? No doubt enhancements that will boggle the mind. The long-awaited high resolution TV which is said to have the quality of an oil painting will no doubt improve the quality of video recordings as well. Or three-dimensional video, stereo sound, Dolby sound — they may be a part of the VCR experience of the future.

Here's a side note: Many with self-serving interests seem to be steering people away from the Beta format VCRs into VHS — telling them that Beta is on the way out. NO WAY! Some video shops hope to simplify their inventories by pushing VHS. Merchants of video recorders get a higher dollar for VHS, that is probably the real factor in the "push" to sell more of this type. Without getting into technicalities, let me just say that I believe Beta is a better system and will continue to exist, peacefully, with VHS.

Video recorders in general will no doubt become better, less expensive and an integral part of the average American family's stockpile of necessities.

Heart patient dies

LaSalle Rogers has lost his battle to live with a transplanted heart.

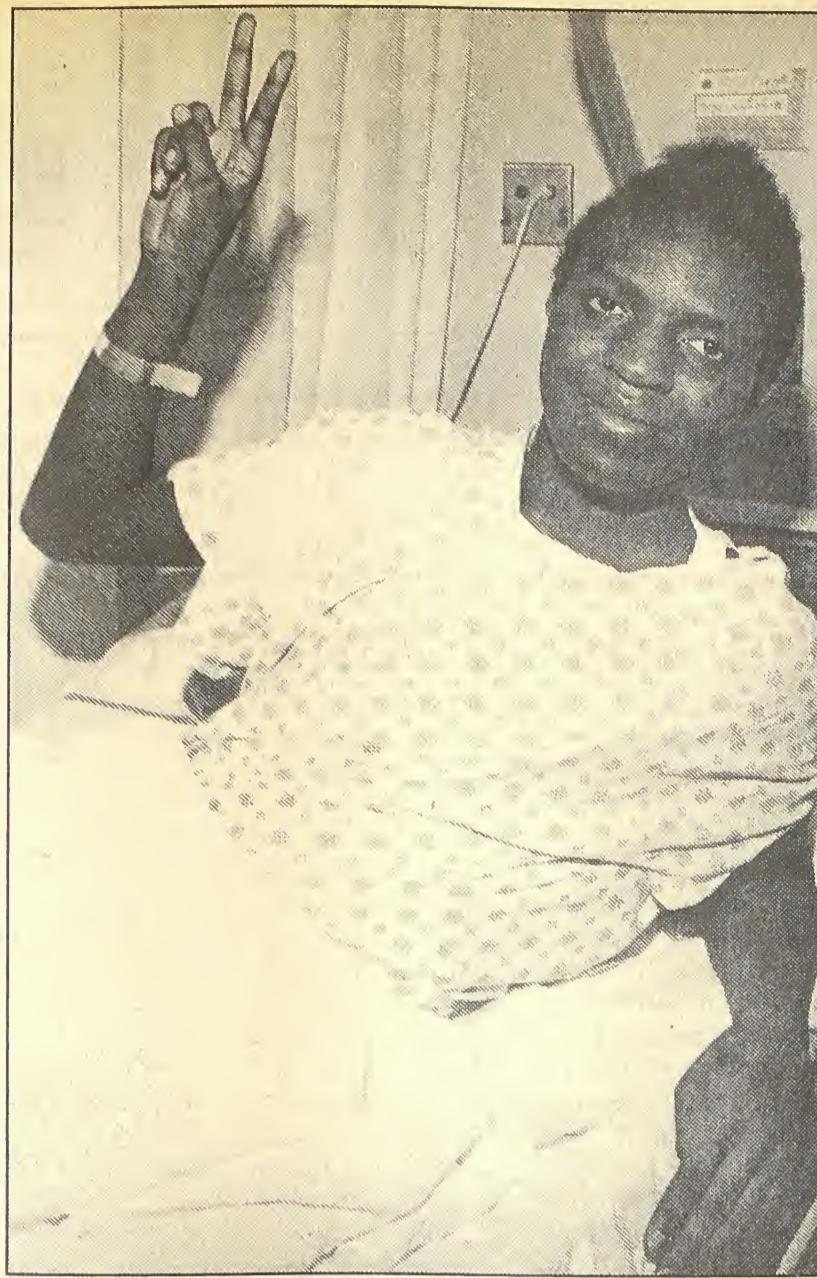

The 21-year-old Inkster resident, who is believed to have been the youngest heart transplant patient in the nation's history, died Sept. 22 from complications related to the heart transplant.

Rogers received the heart of an Illinois man, who had died of a brain tumor, in an operation at the University of Minnesota in May of 1983. He had gained weight since the operation due to anti-rejection drugs he was forced to take, according to friends.

Rogers apparently had suffered from cardiomyopathy, the replacement of normal heart muscle with scar tissue, which left the organ so weak that pressure builds to an extremely high level when blood is pumped, doctors reported. The high pressure had forced blood to back up into Rogers' lungs, causing shortness of breath, according to doctors.

His plight attracted national attention as citizens rallied to raise $100,000 for the heart transplant operation. Local and state organizations staged fundraisers.

Rogers had attended Inkster High School and was unemployed when the illness struck him. He had lived with his disabled father at a housing project

LaSalle Rogers flashed the victory sign before travelling to Minnesota for a heart transplant operation. Friends from across the state helped raise some $100,000 to fund the operation in May of last year. The young Inkster man died of complications from the operation recently.

compliances to date.) I cannot overlook the attention given to the Neighborhood Watch Program in our community. Residents are showing an unusual enthusiasm in their own involvement in this program.

Great strides are being made here at Oakbrook Villa, and a positive response is coming in from many sources. Oakbrook Villa Apartments is succeeding in part because of the enthusiasm and cooperation of the Police and Ordinance Departments. I thank them and feel they all deserve applause.

Woodchuck problem

To the Editor:

I thoroughly agree with Mariann Triee who recently wrote about the serious woodchuck problem we have here in Wayne.

Along with our neighbors, we have tried to keep them from destroying our yards and gardens. However, we are losing the battle as each year more of these pests appear.

I, too, think the proper department of our city management should do some investigating and solve a most annoying and potentially serious situation.

Miller for board

To the Editor:

Mr. Leduc was quoted in your paper as "fearing people would think this was a well planned maneuver" concerning his leaving the W/W School District. Well I for once agree with him. I believe he sought election to the board knowing he was going to leave.

During the Group W interview, I asked Mr. Leduc if he was planning to leave the district and was seeking election, so his replacement could be hand picked by a few rather than the voters. At that time he denied it. I believe his words were "no position has been offered and none accepted."

Now he admits that he was negotiating for the position in Texas prior to the election. I feel that had he told the voters that he was in discussion for another position, it would have affected the outcome of the school board election.

Mr. Leduc narrowly beat out Rosemary Miller in that election and now that he is leaving, I believe Rosemary should be granted his seat on W/W school board. Since a large number of voters supported her during the election she would certainly be able to represent us as the voter's choice. This would thwart any plan to hand pick a board member and alleviate Mr. Leduc's fears that "people will think this was a well planned maneuver."

Rose Mary Miller is honest, able, and qualified to serve the school district. The people think so, at least one local paper supported her during her campaign. She should be asked to serve out Mr. Leduc's term.

Fire safety is concern

By KENNETH WARFIELD
Special to ANP

(Warfield serves as deputy director of the Wayne Fire Division)

Fire Prevention Week (FPW) Oct. 7-13 has been a part of October for more than 50 years. Thousands of Americans have joined Community-Wide EDITH (Exit Drills in the home) rehearsals, participated in special school programs or attended a fire department open house. For many people, FPW means re-learning fire safety behaviors—how to stop, drop and roll, or checking for two ways out.

But I wonder if all of us in the community realize the deeper meaning of that week. For example:

FPW is a year round concern. Is driving defensively or avoiding a downed power line restricted only to certain times or seasons? Of course not—people practice these and other safety habits all year. Fire safety should be no exception. As President Harding wrote, when proclaiming the first FPW, Fire Prevention Week should be observed "by every man, woman, and child, not only during the week designated in this proclamation but throughout every hour of every day of the year." That was good advice in 1922, and is still good advice today.

FPW is a team effort. Since we began sponsoring FPW in 1922 the National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA) has chosen many FPW themes that reinforce the team concept to fire safety. These themes—"You are not alone," "Fire prevention is your job... too," "Join the fire prevention team: Learn not to burn,"—reflect the critical importance of teamwork to fire safety. Achieving a complex goal such as fire safety (because being fire safe means changing behavior and attitude) requires a team approach. Teamwork also builds enthusiasm, reinforces individual effort, and binds all of us together in a common cause.

FPW means taking action. Fire safety is not a passive activity. People must act to protect themselves. It's not enough to register in a hotel and think, "I can use the elevator in case of fire." Being fire safe means checking into your room, dropping your suitcase and going right out into the hallway and counting the doors from your room to the fire stairs. Without action, fire safety remains just another good idea.

FPW means taking action. Fire safety is not a passive activity. People must act to protect themselves. It's not enough to register in a hotel and think, "I can use the elevator in case of fire." Being fire safe means checking into your room, dropping your suitcase and going right out into the hallway and counting the doors from your room to the fire stairs. Without action, fire safety remains just another good idea.

Fire Prevention Week, finally, symbolizes a goal—to make our world more firesafe by learning, and by helping others. It's a goal the NFPA and the Wayne Fire Division is proud to share with the educators who include fire safety lessons in their classrooms, the fire fighters who give off-duty time to demonstrations and drills, and the many others who donate their time and talent for a goal they believe in. By making Fire Prevention Week a priority in their lives, they've all become members of the FPW team.

For all these people, and for the NFPA, Fire Prevention week is a time when we renew our year-long commitment to fire safety. In making that commitment, we join the team that teaches how to "Learn Not To Burn"—all year long.

Reagan-Bush campaign

Jacques named chairman

Theodore Jacques, a resident of Romulus, has been named as the city's chairman for the Reagan-Bush campaign, it was announced last week by Reagan-Bush '84 Campaign Wayne Chairperson Daniel Dobbins.

Jacques ran unsuccessfully for the 37th District Republican state representative candidacy earlier this year and was defeated by Georgia Gramlich of Van Buren.

Jacques has served the Republican Part as a precinct delegate, a member of the 15th Congressional District's Executive Committee, chairman of the finance committee for the Belleville Area Republican Club and as a delegate to numerous district and state conventions.

Jacques is employed at G.M. Fisher Body, as a skilled trades industrial machine repairman, and has worked extensively in the computer inventory control program. Having attended Dearborn High, Henry Ford Community College, and the University of Michigan.

Jacques and his wife, Kathleen, and children Michelle and April have lived in Romulus since 1968.

The 39-year-old Jacques' civic affiliations include U.A.W. Local 174, Big Brothers and Big Sisters of America, Romulus Beautification Commission, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Yankee Air Force Aviation Museum, Hale Creek Neighborhood Watch, and Wolverine 4 Wheelers.

Of his challenge being Romulus campaign chairman, Jacques says "our gratification comes in knowing every vote counts, and that the ordinary citizen can have a vote in his government. We are counting on a tremendous volunteer effort to help carry Michigan for the President."

Jacques has requested that anyone who is interested in helping on the Reagan-Bush '84 Campaign contact him at 941-7217.

The Reagan-Bush '84 Campaign marks a first in Presidential politics, because the campaign is decentralized. Each state and local party has been made responsible for campaign activity in its jurisdiction, and Michigan's campaign will feature the largest voter identification program (VIP) ever assembled.

Businesses now use video for training, to display their work and for insurance purposes. Companies such as Owens Glass have a full video department and local architect Dave Reitzel now video tapes a prospective job and replays it in the office, making his sketches and drawings based on the video tapes.

Business enterprises are cropping up constantly based on the use of video . . . weddings are being taped by professional photographers rather than the still photos formerly ordered as mementos. A new company is going into schools and taping students for identification as an aid to police in the event of a kidnapping, runaway or serious crime.

Fallen giant

It's no simple task taking down a tree, but for workmen in the City of Wayne it was difficult for another reason. The subject of their wood-cutting efforts was a 120-year-old red oak, situated at the corner of the city's historic cemetery on Michigan Avenue. The tree, whose absence is very noticeable these days, has been around almost as long as the community's original burial ground.

An adult dance class will begin from 7 to 9 pm. Oct. 9 at the Inkster Recreation Complex and run each Tuesday thru May. Registration fee is $2 and the instructor will be Dr. Emeral Crosby.

Ramsey—Heffelfinger marry

More than 250 guests witnessed the nuptials which united Teresa Lynn Ramsey and Mark Alan Heffelfinger in marriage Aug. 4.

Baskets of white gladiolus, mums and daisies with green ferns decorated the First Baptist Church of Stanley, North Carolina where the ceremony took place. Officiating at the double-ring rites was Rev. Charles High and Rev. Milton Hollifield who spoke to the couple and their assembled guests prior to the exchange of vows in the candlelight setting.

Organ music was provided by Rachel Bumgarner and pianist was Betty Neal.

Kibble and Jeff DeJarnett sang a duet for the entertainment of the guests and Mike Long sang "The Wedding Song," at the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ramsey of Stanley, N.C. and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffelfinger of Pinewood Street in Wayne.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white organza and chantilly lace accented with a Queen Anne neckline. The bodice of the dress was appliqued with seed pearls and the leg-of-mutton style sleeves were also accented with chantilly lace. Her skirt, which ended in a chapel length train, was also adorned with matching lace. A headband of seed pearls held her full-length three-tiered veil in place.

She carried a bouquet of pink and white rosebuds with lace and white streamers atop a white Bible.

Serving as maid of honor at the ceremony was a sister of the bride, Sandra Ramsey of Raleigh, N.C. She wore a light blue organza-over-taffeta dress accented with a white lace ruffle worn off the shoulder. Her full length skirt was trimmed with a white lace ruffle which formed a bustle in the rear. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and blue baby's breath with white streamers.

Acting as bridesmaids at the nuptials were Susie Duncan of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Annette Heffelfinger, a sister-in-law of the groom from Mishawaka, Ind., Debra McGee of Charlotte N.C. Cecilia McGinnis of Stanley, N.C., Lisa Sherrill of Sherrill's Ford, N.C., Andrea Thomas of Raleigh, N.C. Cindy Troxler of Gibsonville, N.C., and Jennifer Wells, of Stanley, N.C.

Assuming the duties of best man at the wedding was the groom's brother, John Heffelfinger of Mishawaka, Ind. Ushers and groomsmen included cousins of the bride, Larry Eads of Cullowhee and Mike Eads of Mars Hill, Daryl Ernest of Elkhart, Ind., David McDaniel, Bob Pope, Chuck Rice and Billy Vaughan, all of Marietta, Ga., and a cousin of the groom Eddie Rogers of Mansfield, Ohio.

Honorary attendants at the wedding were Cindy Adkins and Tammy Anderson, both of Houston, Tex. and Ann Stapanowich of Charlotte, N.C. Lisa Bridges and Marion Tabor, both of Marietta, Ga. attended the guest book for the couple.

A cousin of the bride, Kelley Ponder of Maggie Valley, N.C., acted as rice carrier for the couple.

The bride's mother chose a floor-length, pink, chiffon gown accented with a corsage of pink rosebuds. The mother of the groom was gowned in a floor length mauve-colored dress and also wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Following the exchange of their marital vows, the couple was honored at a reception at the fellowship hall of the church hosted by the parents of the bride. Servers included Melise Bunker of Houston, Tex., Kitty Saunders of Iron Station, N.C. and aunts of the bride, Pat Davis of Arden, N.C., Frieda Ponder of Maggie Valley, N.C., and Louella Sutphin of Winston Salem, N.C.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Myrtle Beach, S.C. before returning to their home in Marietta, Ga.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Appalachian State University where she earned both her bachelors and masters degrees. She is employed as a teacher at Wheeler High School in Marietta, Ga.

The groom is a 1976 graduate of John Glenn High School and earned his bachelors degree in business administration at Bethel College in Mishawaka, Ind. in 1980. He is employed with Enterprise Leasing in Atlanta, Ga.

Variety is the spice of public school programs

All children are special — just ask their parents. To account for this uniqueness Michigan's public schools provide a wide range of programs to meet the needs of all children.

Most children take part in the special programs offered as a part of the regular curriculum. These programs range from sports to computers; from honors classes to field trips; from school assemblies to foreign exchange programs.

There are some children, however, whose needs are not met as part of the regular school program. These children may have exhibited a special talent or potential, or they may have a special learning, physical or emotional handicap.

Four categories of special programs exist to meet the needs of these children. These programs fall under the general headings of special education (mentally, physically, emotionally or learning disabled), compensatory education, bilingual education and gifted and talented education.

"Michigan has taken many positive steps to nurture her most valuable resource, her children," said State Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip E. Runkel. "The special programs provided by the state, local districts and intermediate districts insure that each child is given the opportunity to grow to his potential, and therefore, as he matures, contribute his unique talents to society."

Special Education: Special education rules in Michigan allow individuals to receive services from birth to school graduation or 26 years of age. These individuals fall under general categories — mentally impaired, emotionally impaired, physically impaired, hearing and vision impaired, learning disabled, autistic and multiply impaired.

Identification of children who meet the eligibility guidelines for these services is undertaken by local school districts and a new program, the Michigan Department of Education's Project Find. This is an intensive, ongoing state-wide search for all unserved handicapped children. If you believe that your child needs the services of special education, you may call Project Find at its toll-free number of 1-800-572-6955.

Once identified, special education students are eligible for a wide range of extra services including special equipment, specially trained teachers, smaller classes and special recreation programs.

Information about special education programs is available from local and/or intermediate school districts. Intermediate boards have parent advisory committees for special education. Board members are usually very willing to talk with the parents of newly identified special education students. Parents are also included in this child's placement conference.

Compensatory Education: Compensatory education programs now serve about $160,000 students. These programs receive 95 percent of their funding from the federal government and exist in targeted schools throughout the state.

To be targeted, schools must have an above average percentage of students from low-income families, although any student in a targeted school may receive services regardless of family income.

Compensatory education provides special programs and services to students working below grade level in reading and math. Funds are used to keep class sizes in remedial math and English classes lower than the average, to hire teacher aides, to provide special curriculum materials and to provide for special staff training.

Compensatory education programs include a mandatory parent advisory council. This group meets several times a year to review and evaluate programs and to recommend and approve program changes.

Bilingual Education: Many students in Michigan do not speak English as their primary language. For them, trying to learn English while trying to keep up with their regular classwork presents a special challenge. Fortunately, bilingual programs exist to help them with this task.

Bilingual education programs are now found in 65 school districts and serve approximately 19,000 students speaking 68 different languages. Students speaking Spanish, Arabic and Vietnamese comprise the most frequently served populations.

Students from kindergarten through 12th grade are served although primary emphasis is placed on the elementary grades. School districts must establish a bilingual program when 20 eligible students from one language group have been identified.

The goal of these programs is to assist the student with low English skills with regular classwork while the student is learning English. Special teachers and aides and special instructional techniques are used to achieve these ends.

Parent involvement in the form of parent advisory committees and parent-teacher conferences is a strong component of the bilingual program in the state. Perhaps that is why the bilingual students in Michigan achieve at four times the national average.

Parents who believe that their students qualify for a bilingual education program should contact their local school district.

Gifted and Talented Education: While some students struggle through school, others seem to breeze through, and in fact, may be bored with the regular curriculum. These gifted and talented students learn more rapidly and gain an in-depth understanding of the material under study.

RETIREMENT WITH WARMTH AND PROFESSIONALISM

Dear Letter Writer:

I have worked for the same school district as a librarian for 42 plus years. I would appreciate your help in writing a retirement letter which will adequately express my feelings.

Sincerely, AB

Dear School Superintendent:

It is with a great deal of mixed emotions, outstanding memories and feelings of warmth and accomplishment that I submit this letter of retirement to you and the school district.

Forty-Two plus years of my life have been dedicated to the nurturing of the young through public education. Thirty-Eight plus years have been served as librarian at your school. These years are replete with thoughts of excitement, challenges, successes and rewards.

Having had the opportunity to represent the district on many state, local and national committees, I look back over the years with a great deal of pride in the work completed during my association with the school district. In short, I feel privileged to have been able to live, work and be an integral part of the community.

By this letter, I would like to most sincerely thank our board president, the members of the board of education and all of the trustees who have supported me and been the source of help, sharing and assistance that was critical as we mutually worked toward benefitting our youngsters and our community. Mr. Superintendent, as both a parent and an administrator with whom I interface on a daily basis, I would take this opportunity to express to you, personally, my appreciation for your time, understanding and assistance.

My thanks to the other members of the administrative staff, the employees in the business office, the custodial and maintenance staffs, and each and everyone outside these mentioned groups who made special and invaluable contributions as I performed my tasks, met deadlines and worked to fulfill my personal expectations, thus meeting and filling the needs of the community.

To my library staff, I offer my heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for their continued excellent performance in providing the school district and the community solid, viable and state-of-the-art library personnel, services and resources.

Please accept this letter in the spirit in which it is intended, i.e. an attempt to humbly "thank you all" and make certain that you "all know" that I am only retiring, not removing myself from service.

If there is anything that needs to be done that I can help with or provide assistance in accomplishing, please do not hesitate to contact me. Whenever possible, I will make myself available to meet your needs.

It has been a pleasure an an honor to work with you, the community, the parents and, most especially, the students of this school district and this community.

I leave with a heavy heart, however, a smile on my face. Very few people can walk away from their chosen profession with feelings of self satisfaction; I am fortunate and, again, I thank you all.

Sincerely, AB

RESOLUTION: AB put the first part of her life to rest and now will move forward.

MESC office closes

The Romulus Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) office at 38333 Van Born Road, closed on Friday, Sept. 14, A.R. Jazowski, acting MESC director, said.

The Romulus MESC office was among seven offices that MESC closed on Sept. 14.

MESC announced in late July that it would close the seven offices and reduce its staff by 232 positions before Oct. 1. The closings and layoffs are the result of federal budget cuts.

The closings will reduce the number of MESC offices statewide to 85 and the number of staff positions to 2,600.

MESC is a federally-funded state agency which administers the state's unemployment insurance and Job Service programs.

Donald Previch, manager of MESC's Romulus office, said that employers, job-seekers and unemployment benefit claimants who use the office are being directed to any of three remaining nearby MESC offices. The MESC has offices in Dearborn, 2901 Guley Road; Southgate, 16690 Fort Street; and Livonia, 28003 W. Eight Mile Road.

MESC staff at the Romulus office will be transferred to other MESC offices based on their seniority with the agency and Civil Service procedures.

The other MESC offices that are closing include Ann Arbor, Grand Haven, Greenville and three in Detroit.

Bright is NASP semifinalist

Belleville High School student Virgie Bright is among some 1,500 semifinalists named in the 21st annual National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students.

More than 73,000 black students were considered for the scholarship program based on their Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The semifinalists, who will compete for 650 achievement scholarships valued in excess of $2 million, were the highest scor-

Bright is interested in studying premedicine with a goal of a career as a physician.

Scholarship deadline is Dec. 1

Scholarship applications are being accepted for the Navy's four-year Navy Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) college scholarship program. Deadline for application is Dec. 1, 1984.

The four-year, $40,000 college scholarship competition is open to U.S. citizens 17-21 years of age. You must be a good student and have an ACT score of 24 Math, 18 English or a SAT score of 520 Math, 430 Verbal as a minimum to qualify and compete.

During the competition for the 1984 scholarship program there were 160 scholarships offered to 289 qualified applicants.

The NROTC scholarship pays all tuition, books, educational fees and provides $100 per month during the school year. Students also have three to four weeks paid training each summer. The scholarship recipients attend more than 60 of the nation's finest colleges and universities, including the University of Michigan. During the school year students usually wear a uniform one day per week and spend five to seven hours per week in Naval Science activities.

Upon graduation the students are commissioned in the regular Navy and may be assigned to aviation, submarines or surface ships. About 12 percent may be commissioned as Marine Corps officers (if they desire and are qualified). The active duty requirement is four years.

Immediate application is urged in order to qualify for the early selection board. The absolute deadline for initial applications is Dec. 1, 1984. Deadline for receipt of ACT or SAT scores is Dec. 31, 1984.

Active duty personnel and drilling reservists (a month-for-month age waiver for active duty may be applied) interested in the NROTC scholarship competition for themselves or their dependents also may apply.

For further information, call toll 1-800-922-1702. Be sure to mention that you are seeking NROTC information.

School taxes . . . How do they work?

When an Olympic athlete over 6 foot will play. Many or she combined potential and effort to become a winner. Although no medals are awarded for paying school taxes, understanding how an athlete combines both potential and talent can help explain how school taxes work.

School districts also have potential, but in their cases it is measured by the amount of taxable property and the number of full-time students they have. A school district's potential per pupil to fund education is the total assessed value of taxable property in the district divided by the total number of full-time students in the district.

Property is assessed by the local unit of government (city, township or county) at one-half its market value. A state equalization program is designed to insure that all properties are assessed fairly. For example, if District A had $80 million worth of taxable property, its assessed value would be $40 million. If District A had 1,000 students its potential would be $40,000 per pupil ($40 million divided by 1,000). In Michigan the potentials range from $17,000 to $600,000 per pupil.

Just as it would be difficult for anyone under six feet tall to play professional basketball, it does not follow that all those over 6 foot will play. Many are not playing because they did not put forth the effort necessary to achieve that goal. Effort for school districts is the millage rate voted upon by the citizens of that district. They may tax themselves at any rate they choose.

School taxes are based on property taxes expressed in mills. A mill is one-tenth of one cent ($.001). The simplest way to calculate taxes from millage is to remember that one mill equals $1 in taxes for every $1,000 of assessed valuation. To determine property tax multiply the number of mills by the assessed valuation as adjusted by the state equalized valuation (SEV).

If District A levied 30 mills and the assessed value of a property within that district was $25,000 the taxes on that property would be $750 per year.

In per pupil terms the district would raise $1,200 per pupil ($40,000 assessed value per pupil times 30 mills).

School districts can determine the amount they tax themselves, but they are unable to control the amount of property within their borders. This presents some problems. A school district with only half the property of District A would have to tax itself twice as much to achieve the same results. A district with twice the property would have to tax itself only half as much.

It is here that the state steps into the picture. State aid to education is based on the premise that those districts making equal efforts, that is taxing themselves at equal rates, should be guaranteed a minimum amount per student. The objective of state aid is to equalize, as much as possible, educational opportunity throughout the state.

The state aid formula guarantees for each pupil a specific amount of aid per mill of tax rate up to a specified limit. For 1983-84 the state guaranteed $59 per mill plus a flat grant of $328.

District A would be guaranteed $2,098 ($59 times 30 mills plus $328 flat grant). The amount collected locally, $1,200, is subtracted from this figure leaving a state aid contribution of $898.

Under the formula, any district levying 30 mills would be guaranteed the $2,098 figure. The state aid for each district would vary depending on the value of the property within each district.

Any district capable of raising more money than the state aid formula allows is termed an "out-of-formula" district and receives no basic state aid. These districts, about 26 percent of Michigan's school districts, do receive some state money in the form of categorical aid for such programs as transportation, gifted and talented education and special education.

A district with 1,000 students, an assessed valuation of $80 million, and a tax rate of 30 mills would raise $2,400 per student.

dent from local taxes. Since the state provides only $2,098 to those districts with a 30-mill levy, the district would receive no basic state aid.

Examining this formula answers one concern Michigan citizens often voice about school taxes. They often believe that when their property assessments go up that the schools automatically receive more money. While this is true for the out-of-formula districts, it does not always hold true for
